

Till van der Zwaag is a German guitar player, composer and producer.

He became regionally known with the bands Neuland (2003 - 2019), Colours of Perception (1994 - 2005) and Mudguard (member 1998 - 2001). His playing style is characterized by a wide musical range, great virtuosity and a love of experimentation.

In his compositions he likes to mix different musical styles, but his taste for melodies and rock always shines through. To realize his unique guitar tone he likes to go unusual ways, often even on a fretless guitar.

Under the label "vdZ" he now slips into the role of an instrumental bandleader for the first time. The spectrum of the music ranges from melodic ballads to catchy rock songs, sometimes with hints of jazz, to brute soundscapes, whereby the composition is always the focus and the guitar takes the listener on a journey with groovy riffs and catchy melodies.

The first vdZ album is titled "Mosaic" and contains 8 compositions, which were realized completely on their own and without additional musicians. The album will be released online track by track starting 2022 and marks his debut as a solo artist.
